Level 2 – Illusion
Casting Time: Action · Range: Touch
Components: V, S, M (an eyelash in gum arabic) · Duration: Concentration, up to 1 hour
Classes: Bard, Sorcerer, Warlock, Wizard

A creature you touch has the Invisible condition until the spell ends. The spell ends early immediately after the target makes an attack roll, deals damage, or casts a spell.

Higher-level slot: you can target one additional creature for each slot level above 2.

🎲 Quick summary:

1. You touch a creature.
2. It has the Invisible condition.
3. The spell ends after an attack roll, damage dealt, or a spell cast.
4. Concentration, 1 hour.

⚠ Change from 2014

In 2014, invisibility ended when the target attacked or cast a spell. In 2024, it ends after the attack roll, the damage, or the spell.

⚠ Flaw in the rule and fixes Table rule

The Invisible condition doesn't make you silent or traceless. Fix: refer to the Fighting Invisible Creatures sheet and the Stealth rule.

💡 Narrative option: Table rule

The DM can describe rippling air, a silhouette fading, footsteps with no owner.

Step 1 – Touch the target:

A creature, willing or not (a touch attack if needed). It becomes invisible.

Step 2 – Effect:

It has the Invisible condition (see the condition).

Step 3 – End of the spell:

The spell ends right after an attack roll, damage dealt, or a spell cast.

Step 4 – Hiding:

Invisibility isn't enough to go unnoticed: noise and tracks count (see Stealth).

Example: Isa becomes invisible. She opens the door (nothing), crosses the room (nothing), then attacks a guard: the attack has Advantage, then the spell ends.

⚠ Common questions:

How long does it last?

Concentration, up to 1 hour.

When does it end?

After an attack roll, damage dealt, or a spell cast.

Am I silent?

No: invisibility doesn't erase noise.

Table rule

What does Invisible do?

Advantage on attacks, Disadvantage on attacks against me if I'm unseen.

Can I touch an ally?

Yes, it's a touch spell.

Does it scale?

Yes: one more creature per slot level above 2.

Can an attacker still see me?

No, unless they have True Seeing or a suitable sense.

⚠ Debate points and table options:

Table rule

First attack with Advantage

The spell ends after the attack roll: the first roll is made invisible. Option: follow the text.

Noise and tracks

The Invisible condition doesn't erase noise. Option: the DM asks for a Stealth check to avoid being heard.

Area spells

Casting an area spell ends invisibility. Option: keep it.

Carried objects

The text only mentions the creature. Option: what it carries is invisible too.

Multiple targets

Higher-level slot: several targets. Option: all under the same concentration.

⚠ Rule clarifications (answers found on the web, reworded):

Hidden or invisible

A hidden creature has the Invisible condition, which ends when a creature finds it. A creature with Blindsight or Truesight sees it.

Hiding again after an attack

After an attack, you need the Hide action to hide again, unless you have a special ability.

Opportunity Attack

A Blinded creature can't make an Opportunity Attack: it must see the creature leaving its reach (except with Blindsight).
